High pressure is rapidly gaining strength over northern California, which will lead to further drying and to our warmest weather so far in 2014 over the next few days. There is a chance for some triple- digit maximum temps in warmest lower inland valleys by Wednesday. We will have generally lighter and more variable winds from this afternoon through Thursday, except for local moderate easterly a.m. gusts on the northern Sierra's west slopes. The weather changes this coming weekend, after the high pressure ridge flattens considerably in the north late Friday. Look for a NW to SE moving low pressure trough to drop down through the eastern half of the area, bringing some showers in the north and east Sunday and/or Monday. It might also produce isolated thunderstorms from near the Cascade/Sierras eastward. Gusty and increasing SW to West gradient winds will precede the frontal system by late Friday.

An offshore pressure gradient coupled with a strong high pressure ridge will produce locally gusty Santa Ana winds, record high temperatures and very low RH through Wednesday. In general, east and northeast winds of 20-30 mph with gusts to 50 mph will be possible with the strongest winds likely occurring later this morning into the mid-afternoon hours today, and again late tonight through Wednesday morning. RH recovery was minimal over most areas and readings will be in the single digits well before noon today. RH recovery will be nearly non-existent tonight. By Thursday morning, winds will be significantly weaker, but temperatures will still be at or above record high readings. Friday into the weekend, a trough will move into the Pacific Northwest which will lead to cooler, onshore flow.

CAL OES DROUGHT ACTIVATIONS

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- The SOC is activated at Level 2 in support of the Drought State of Emergency from 0800-1700 hours daily.
- The Inland REOC is activated at Level 2 from 0800-1700 Monday through Friday or as needed.
- The Southern REOC is activated at Level 1.
- The Santa Barbara County OA EOC is activated at Level 2 to be handled by the duty officer for the purpose of monitoring activities and gaining situational awareness. The operational period is 0800-1700 hours.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue without substantial rainfall, severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

*As our state's rainy season comes to an end, it is highly unlikely that precipitation totals will increase significantly. This winter's below average rain and snowfall worsens conditions in this third straight dry year.

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

- The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.
- The most recent snowpack survey, conducted on April 1, recorded California snowpack at 32% of normal. A more recent update using automated devices shows snowpack at 19% of normal as of April 20.
- DWR has announced that water essential for health and safety will be delivered through the state water project in spite of the zero allocation policy. Deliveries will be boosted if storms produce enough rain and snow to increase reservoir storage and the snow pack.
- Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.
